Assignment:	Evaluation of structure for a two Douglas Firs as marked on attached site plan.
Observation:	The trees in question are a 29" and 24" Douglas Fir (Psuedotsuga menziesii) previously inspected and specified for retention in a report dated 8/22/2019. Canopy is sparse but evenly distributed, dead wood and twig dieback is present throughout the canopy of both trees. Trees were observed during a mild storm event and significant soil heaving and root plate lifting was noted, likely due to saturated soils and grade changes outside the Root Protection Zone (RPZ).
Conclusion:	Due to exposure and the trees being exposed to windthrow not previously experienced, in addition to saturated ground leading to root compaction. Its advisable to remove the trees as they present a hazard in their current state. There are no feasible mitigation measures to reduce the risk of either partial or total failure. The following actions should be considered to mitigate the current issues: -Removal of tree 9 & 50
