This organization’s overview is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Neighborhood Forest is a non-profit, social venture dedicated to giving children their very own tree to plant on Earth Day – for free – every spring. ▪ We love trees! We love planting them and watching them grow.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ We want to give every child this joy. ▪ And, in the process, beautify our neighborhoods, remove carbon from the atmosphere, and help instill in the hearts of our little ones a sense of magic, wonder, and love for our planet. ▪ Since 2010, Neighborhood Forest has mobilized over 2,000 schools, libraries, and youth groups, engaged over 500,000 volunteers, and given over 197,000 children in all 50 states (plus Canada and Mexico) the opportunity to plant their very own tree. ▪ We are growing at a rapid rate and are aiming to reach 1 million children in the next few years. ▪ Our dream is to reach every child in North America and eventually the world. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Columbia View Park and North Gresham Park Trails and Southwest Community Park <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Metro Local Share monies are allocated to install basic amenities to all six undeveloped parks (including the Southwest Community Park), as well as to create a Nature Education Center using the historic home at Hogan Butte Nature Park. The trails associated with the Columbia View and North Gresham Parks are part of the ODOT Community Parks Paths Program. The ODOT grant monies are not being used for the improvement of any undeveloped park and the delay in the construction of those paths is due to a delay in the completion of the grant contract with ODOT. • A 396-year old tree was struck by lightning and a “cookie” is being made and is expected to be available by the end of October.
